The Art of Change 21 association, specialised in art and the environment, is organising the Biocenosis21 exhibition as part of the IUCN Congress, the biggest global event devoted to biodiversity, which will open to the general public from the 4th to the 11th of September in Marseille.

Biocenosis21 celebrates living things, providing a new perspective on biodiversity and raising awareness about ecological issues.

The curator of the exhibition, Alice Audouin, founder of Art of Change 21, has selected 14 inspiring and engaged artists from all over the world, who enable us to see, feel and understand biodiversity and its issues in a different way, and who offer a beacon of hope for the relationship between humans and non-humans.

Biocenosis21 will be held in the Nature Generation Areas (Hall2, B6) and in the UNESCO-LVMH pavilion (Hall3), which is hosting Wither by the artist thijs Biersteker (with the support of LVMH).

Art of Change 21 has given free rein to Photoclimat on the topic of the oceans in the outside spaces of the Nature Generation Areas (with the support of Schneider Electric Foundation and Bugis, and in partnership with the Tara Ocean Foundation and Surfrider Foundation Europe).

Outside the Congress, Art of Change 21 and La Traverse (a new cultural venue in Marseille) present two artists from Biocenosis21, Marie-Sarah Adenis and John Gerrard.

ART OF CHANGE 21

The Art of Change 21 association connects contemporary art with major environmental issues and acts on the international level.

Founded in Paris in 2014 by Alice Audouin and patronized by Olafur Eliasson and Tristan Lecomte, Art of Change 21's main partner is the Fondation Schneider Electric and its main institutional partners are the Ministry for Europe and Foreign Affairs, the French Office for Biodiversity and UN Environment. In 2021, Art of Change 21 welcomed the Maison Ruinart as a new sponsor.
